Dear Student,

Greetings and Welcome to the Social Work Program!

Congratulations on your admission to the Social Work Program at Mercy College. Mercy College offers a Bachelor in Social Work which is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE). I am pleased that you successfully completed the interview and application process to formally be accepted into the program.

This is the beginning of your professional training to become a competent entry-level generalist social worker. As a social worker you will be able to help people and work with communities to address diverse issues.

The purpose of this Handbook is to provide you with important information which will assist you in your Junior year and throughout the program. Please keep this manual and use it as a guide.

At the end of this booklet is a form that needs to be signed and dated by you. This certifies that you have received and read this booklet and agree to abide by the policies and procedures. This must be done in order for you to continue in the program.

The Social Work Faculty wish you much success as you begin your studies in the Social Work Program.

Sincerely,

Carol Bennett-Speight, DSW, LSW
Associate Professor,
Director of Social Work Program

MISSION OF THE SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM

The mission of the Social Work Program at Mercy College is to prepare students for generalist social work practice and to serve diverse and at-risk populations. The Program seeks to provide students with an education that will prepare them with the knowledge and skills to deal with the professional, societal and ethical issues they will face in contemporary social work practice. The Program is also dedicated to the enhancement of the quality of life for people, to effecting change by addressing adverse conditions that impede the achievement of social justice, and to educating students to act humanely and with integrity. The Program is committed to providing a high level of education and attentiveness to our students and to creating and enhancing their opportunities to contribute to their communities and the profession.

PROGRAM GOALS

The goals for the Social Work Program are:

1. To prepare students for entry level generalist social work practice including interventions with individuals, families, groups, organizations and communities.

2. To educate students to serve diverse populations and needs with sensitivity, creativity and professional courage.

3. To foster student respect for and integration of professional ethics and values into their practice.

4. To promote student commitment to seek avenues for lifelong learning and professional development.

5. To provide students, who may wish to pursue graduate education, with a solid academic and practice foundation of knowledge and skills.

6. To promote student commitment and contribution towards improving unjust or oppressive social conditions and policies and towards promoting effective and humane agency/organization practices and programs.
THE SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM

The Social Work Program at Mercy College is part of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences. Students majoring in social work take a combination of courses and field work which constitute the foundation of knowledge and skills necessary for a career in this profession. The social work baccalaureate major has been designed to meet requirements for accreditation by the Council on Social Work Education.

EDUCATIONAL POLICIES AND ACCREDITATION STANDARDS (EPAS)

Mercy College’s Social Work Program is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE). CSWE’s 2008 Educational Policies and Accreditation Standards (EPAS) identified 10 core competencies operationalized by 41 practice behaviors.

Students graduating with a Social Work degree from Mercy College are expected to demonstrate understanding and mastery at the BSW level of these 10 core competencies and 41 practice behaviors, which are listed below.
1. Identify as a professional social worker and conduct oneself accordingly. Social workers serve as representatives of the profession, its mission, and its core values. They know the profession’s history. Social workers commit themselves to the profession’s enhancement and to their own professional conduct and growth. Social workers:
   • advocate for client access to the services of social work;
   • practice personal reflection and self-correction to assure continual professional development;
   • attend to professional roles and boundaries;
   • demonstrate professional demeanor in behavior, appearance, and communication;
   • engage in career-long learning; and
   • use supervision and consultation.

2. Apply social work ethical principles to guide professional practice. Social workers have an obligation to conduct themselves ethically and to engage in ethical decision-making. Social workers are knowledgeable about the value base of the profession, its ethical standards, and relevant law. Social workers:
   • recognize and manage personal values in a way that allows professional values to guide practice;
   • make ethical decisions by applying standards of the National Association of Social Workers Code of Ethics and, as applicable, of the International Federation of Social Workers/International Association of Schools of Social Work Ethics in Social Work, Statement of Principles;
   • tolerate ambiguity in resolving ethical conflicts; and
   • apply strategies of ethical reasoning to arrive at principled decisions.

3. Apply critical thinking to inform and communicate professional judgments. Social workers are knowledgeable about the principles of logic, scientific inquiry, and reasoned discernment. They use critical thinking augmented by creativity and curiosity. Critical thinking also requires the synthesis and communication of relevant information. Social workers:
   • distinguish, appraise, and integrate multiple sources of knowledge, including research-based knowledge, and practice wisdom;
   • analyze models of assessment, prevention, intervention, and evaluation; and
   • demonstrate effective oral and written communication in working with individuals, families, groups, organizations, communities, and colleagues.

4. Engage diversity and difference in practice. Social workers understand how diversity characterizes and shapes the human experience and is critical to the formation of identity. The dimensions of diversity are understood as the intersectionality of multiple factors including age, class, color, culture, disability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity and expression, immigration status, political ideology, race, religion, sex, and sexual orientation. Social workers appreciate that, as a consequence of difference, a person’s life experiences may include oppression, poverty, marginalization, and alienation as well as privilege, power, and acclaim. Social workers:

- recognize the extent to which a culture’s structures and values may oppress, marginalize, alienate, or create or enhance privilege and power;
- gain sufficient self-awareness to eliminate the influence of personal biases and values in working with diverse groups;
- recognize and communicate their understanding of the importance of difference in shaping life experiences; and
- view themselves as learners and engage those with whom they work as informants.

5. Advance human rights and social and economic justice. Each person, regardless of position in society, has basic human rights, such as freedom, safety, privacy, an adequate standard of living, health care, and education. Social workers recognize the global interconnections of oppression and are knowledgeable about theories of justice and strategies to promote human and civil rights. Social work incorporates social justice practices in organizations, institutions, and society to ensure that these basic human rights are distributed equitably and without prejudice. Social workers:

- understand the forms and mechanisms of oppression and discrimination;
- advocate for human rights and social and economic justice; and
- engage in practices that advance social and economic justice.

6. Engage in research-informed practice and practice-informed research. Social workers use practice experience to inform research, employ evidence-based interventions, evaluate their own practice, and use research findings to improve practice, policy, and social service delivery. Social workers comprehend quantitative and qualitative research and understand scientific and ethical approaches to building knowledge. Social workers:

- use practice experience to inform scientific inquiry and
- use research evidence to inform practice.

7. Apply knowledge of human behavior and the social environment. Social workers are knowledgeable about human behavior across the life course; the range of social systems in which people live; and the ways social systems promote or deter people in maintaining or achieving health and well-being. Social workers apply theories and knowledge from the liberal arts to understand biological, social, cultural, psychological, and spiritual development. Social workers:

- utilize conceptual frameworks to guide the processes of assessment, intervention, and evaluation; and
- critique and apply knowledge to understand person and environment.

8. Engage in policy practice to advance social and economic well-being and to deliver effective social work services. Social work practitioners understand that policy affects service delivery, and they actively engage in policy practice. Social workers know the history and current structures of social policies and services; the role of policy in service delivery; and the role of practice in policy development. Social workers:

• analyze, formulate, and advocate for policies that advance social well-being; and
• collaborate with colleagues and clients for effective policy action.

9. Respond to contexts that shape practice. Social workers are informed, resourceful, and proactive in responding to evolving organizational, community, and societal contexts at all levels of practice. Social workers recognize that the context of practice is dynamic, and use knowledge and skill to respond proactively. Social workers:

• continuously discover, appraise, and attend to changing locales, populations, scientific and technological developments, and emerging societal trends to provide relevant services; and
• provide leadership in promoting sustainable changes in service delivery and practice to improve the quality of social services.

10. Engage, assess, intervene, and evaluate with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Professional practice involves the dynamic and interactive processes of engagement, assessment, intervention, and evaluation at multiple levels. Social workers have the knowledge and skills to practice with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Practice knowledge includes identifying, analyzing, and implementing evidence-based interventions designed to achieve client goals; using research and technological advances; evaluating program outcomes and practice effectiveness; developing, analyzing, advocating, and providing leadership for policies and services; and promoting social and economic justice.

A. Engagement. Social workers:

• substantively and affectively prepare for action with individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities;
• use empathy and other interpersonal skills; and
• develop a mutually agreed-on focus of work and desired outcomes.

B. Assessment. Social workers:

• collect, organize, and interpret client data;
• assess client strengths and limitations;
• develop mutually agreed-on intervention goals and objectives; and
• select appropriate intervention strategies.

C. Intervention. Social workers:

• initiate actions to achieve organizational goals;
• implement prevention interventions that enhance client capacities;
• help clients resolve problems;
• negotiate, mediate, and advocate for clients; and
• facilitate transitions and endings.

D. Evaluation. Social workers critically analyze, monitor, and evaluate interventions.

SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM FACULTY PROFILES

Carol Bennett Speight, DSW, LSW, Associate Professor, Program Director
Professor Bennett-Speight received her bachelor’s degree from Pennsylvania State University, her master’s degree in social work from Rutgers University, and her Doctor of Social Work from the University of Pennsylvania. Prior to her appointment at Mercy College in June 2011, Professor Bennett-Speight worked in higher education for over 25. She was the former Dean at Rhode Island College School of Social Work, Director and Chairperson of the Social Work Program at Cabrini College, and visiting Professor at the University of Pennsylvania. Professor Bennett-Speight also worked as the Director of the Employee Assistance Program at the University of Pennsylvania, and a practitioner. Professor Bennett-Speight has presented widely and authored several professional articles on Aging Workforce, Women, and Multi-Cultural Issues.

Carolyn Hanesworth-, LCSW Assistant Professor, Bronx Campus Coordinator
Professor Hanesworth joined the Social Work Program as a full-time faculty member in 2009. She comes to us having served as a clinical assistant professor at the University of Texas at Austin, School of Social Work. Prior to entering academia, Professor Hanesworth worked for 13 years as both a clinician and administrator for social agencies serving homeless families in Texas and New York City. While doing so, she developed expertise in the area of chronic poverty and its impact on child development and family life. Professor Hanesworth continues to study and publish in the area of urban homelessness, hunger and poverty. She serves as an advisor to the senior leadership of the Partnership for the Homeless in New York City, providing consultation in the areas of program development, training and evaluation. Professor Hanesworth received her bachelor’s degree in Psychology at the University of Arizona and her MSW at the University of Texas at Arlington. She is currently working towards her PhD in Social Welfare at CUNY Graduate Center/Hunter College.

Aminda Heckman, PhD Candidate, LCSW, Assistant Professor
Professor Aminda Heckman joined the Social Work Program as a full-time faculty member in April 2011. She was formerly the Assistant Director of Field Education at Lehman College – City University of New York. Professor Heckman is very active in the National Association of Social Work New York City Chapter and is co-chair of the Asian American Social Workers Task Force. She also served on both the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee from 2005 to 2008. Her clinical experience includes inpatient pediatric psychiatry and outpatient adult mental health. She was recognized for her leadership in 2007 as one of the first recipients of NASW-NYC’s Emerging Leaders in Social Work award. Professor Heckman received her bachelor’s degree at Ball State University and her Master’s degree in Social Work at Fordham University. She is currently earning her PhD in social work at Fordham University.
Jane M. Hogan, Ph.D., LCSW, Field Education Coordinator
Professor Jane M. Hogan joined the Social Work Program as a full time faculty member in August 2014. She completed her graduate studies at Fordham University Graduate School of Social Service earning the MSW in 1994 and Ph.D. in 2000. Dr. Hogan has 20 years of social work experience that includes teaching and field education in higher education, and administration, research, and clinical practice in government, non-profit, and private sector settings. In higher education, she was Assistant Director of Field Education at Seton Hall University, Visiting Professor at Fordham University Graduate School of Social Service, and Adjunct Professor at Columbia University Graduate School of Social Work. Professor Hogan’s teaching spanned the social work curriculum including courses in human behavior, research, practice, and diversity. Dr. Hogan’s practice experience has been mainly in the areas of child welfare and mental health.
PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATES

Alison A. Carroll – MSW
Alison Carroll has an MSW from NYU, and is the Associate Executive Director of Putnam Family and Community Services in Putnam County. She has over 25 years of experience in the field, including over fifteen years teaching social work at local colleges. Alison is a past board member of the NYS Case Management Coalition, and has presented on various topics including advocacy, person-centered goal planning, and the application of rehabilitation principles at mental health conferences statewide and nationally. She is passionate about her belief in recovery and vision of professionals and peers partnering to achieve this.

David Gitelson – MSW, DSW
Dr. Gitelson has extensive experience in working in the field of health and mental health as a practitioner, supervisor and administrator. He recently retired as the Director of Social Work at the Veteran's Administration Hudson Valley Health Care Center. He is also a remarkably versatile classroom instructor with many years of experience in teaching social work students at local colleges and universities, including Adelphi, Columbia, Southern Connecticut and NYU Graduate School. Dr. Gitelson has his bachelor's degree from Syracuse University, his master's degree from Columbia University and his doctorate from the Hunter College School of Social Work.

Heidi Schochet Humm, MSW, has taught at Mercy College within the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences since 1998 and is joining the Social Work Program again as a classroom instructor. She received her Bachelor’s degree from Sarah Lawrence College, and MSW from New York University School of Social Work. Mrs. Humm brings extensive experience working with children, adolescents and families as a clinician, administrator and supervisor in mental health and child welfare settings. She has also worked as an instructor at Westchester Community College and EF International School.

Dee Margolis – MSW
Dee Margolis is a LCSW who received her Master’s Degree at Adelphi University in 1993. Since then she has worked extensively with adolescents in school settings as well as in clinical settings. She created an Anti-Violence Curriculum for FEGS (Federation of Employment and Guidance Services) and implemented it in three Long Island High Schools. She worked for several years with at-risk adolescents as part of the North Shore School Based Health Clinic in Far Rockaway High School and is currently a school social worker in Uniondale High School.

Ms. Margolis has worked as a clinician at FEGS and Family Service League and has been active in the community facilitating parent and adolescent workshops. As an adjunct instructor, she teaches the Human Behavior sequence at Mercy College, Bronx Campus and the Human Behavior and Practice sequence at Adelphi University. Ms. Margolis also has a private practice.
Juadan Rodriguez – LCSW
Mr. Rodriguez has practiced social work as a case manager, clinician, and supervisor in a variety of settings including domestic violence programs, mental health and substance abuse treatment centers, psychiatric municipal hospitals, and private practice. He has worked with adults, children, and families, as well as individuals affected by chronic health problems like cancer, HIV, traumatic brain injury and cardiovascular disease. His experience also includes work with the chronically mentally ill (SPMI) and the dually diagnosed (MICA) client. He obtained his bachelor’s degree in English from Mercy College and holds a MSW from Fordham University. His current scholarly interests involve the relationship between spirituality, conservative Christianity and LGBT issues.

J Donna Sullivan, LCSW-R, C-ASWCM, M.S. Ed
J Donna Sullivan is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and a Certified Care Manager. Ms. Sullivan holds a Master degree in Social Work from Hunter College, a Master’s in Education from Iona College and post graduate certifications from Columbia University and Boston College School of Social Work.

Ms. Sullivan has worked in the field of aging for over 25 years. She is the past Director of Senior Programs for Scarsdale Family Counseling and has worked in managerial and direct practice positions in several nursing homes in Westchester, the Bronx and Manhattan. She is currently Program Supervisor for the Long Term Care Ombudsman Program in Westchester. Ms. Sullivan is owner/operator of AgeWiseConnections, a geriatric care management business covering Northern Westchester and Putnam.
APPLICATION TO THE PROGRAM

A student who would like to major in social work must apply for admission to the social work program. The purpose of the admissions process is to help students to consider and assess their understanding and interest in social work as well as their readiness and capacity to assume the expectations of the program. Program faculty will similarly assess student readiness and ability to meet the requirements of the Major.

Criteria for Admission to the Social Work Program

*Students applying to the social work major should:

1. Have completed at least 42 credits.
2. Have achieved, at least, a cumulative grade point average of 2.60 (on a 4.0 scale)
3. Have an interest in or demonstrated capacity to provide help to people.
4. Demonstrate the aptitude for and/or motivation to enhance skills in clear oral and written expression and the ability to think conceptually and analytically.
5. Meet for an individual interview with the Social Work Program Director, or designate. During the interview, the student and Program Director will explore the student's interests, experience skills and goals and discuss the requirements of the social work major. This meeting includes acknowledgement on behalf of the student of the demands and time requirements of the senior-year field practicum. (Acknowledgement of Program Requirements form is on page)

In its review, the Program Admissions Committee will take into account all aspects of the student's application and presentation. The Committee has the authority to make any exceptions to its admissions policy in accepting an applicant and makes the final decision on an applicants’ suitability.

After completing the application process, the admissions committee will determine if the student:

☐ is admitted to the social work program
☐ offered provisional admission, indicating the specific criteria the student must meet for full admission.
☐ or denied admission.

The student will receive a formal letter from the Program Director informing him/her of the Committee's decision.
TRANSFER CREDITS

All evaluation of transcripts for the purpose of determining transfer credit from other Institutions is done on an individual basis. The evaluation of transfer credits to meet general education requirements or general electives is made by the Office of Admissions.

The evaluations of transfer credits to meet requirements for the Social Work Major are solely determined by the Program Director. The course under review must contain comparable content and academic level to an equivalent course offered in our social work program and conforms to the standards set by the Council on Social Work Education. The student's grade in the course under review must be at least a B. Students cannot obtain transfer credit for field work or social work practice courses. There is a statute of limitations of five years for social work credits eligible for transfer into the current major. Our current policy on course transfers may be obtained in the social work office.

SOCIAL WORK MAJOR CURRICULUM REQUIREMENTS

Students who major in social work should complete the following degree requirements for graduation:

General Education requirements ........................................ 60 credits
Including: Introduction to Psychology
Introduction to Sociology
Introduction to Human Biology (preferred)
Introduction to Computers
Introduction to Social Work (recommended only)

Social Work Major ...................................................... 42 credits
Open electives ......................................................... 18 credits
TOTAL................................................................. 120 credits

The Social Work Major at Mercy College is composed of a progressive sequence of courses offered largely over a 4 semester period, primarily in the junior and senior years, although some students choose to complete the Program over a period of 2 1/2 - 3 years. The core requirements are based on the curriculum guidelines established by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE), the national accrediting body for Baccalaureate Social Work Programs.

Beyond the core requirements, the Program has added course content and electives that we believe are particularly relevant to educate students for practice in the social service sector of New York City and its surrounding counties.

Prior to beginning the social work program, students are expected to complete or concurrently complete: Introduction to Psychology, Introduction to Sociology, Introduction to Human Biology (preferably) and Introduction to Computers. These four courses also meet general education requirements in the College.

The Social Work Program does not grant college credit for life and work experience.
FIELD EXPERIENCE

SENIOR YEAR INTERNSHIP
In 2008, the Council on Social Work Education, the accrediting body for the Social Work Program, designated field education as the “signature pedagogy.” As such, it recognizes field work as the “central form of instruction and learning in which a profession socializes its students to perform the role of practitioner (CSWE, 2008).

Recognizing the integral role that field education plays in social work education, in order for students to graduate with a BSW in Social Work, they must complete a field internship during their Senior year. Students are placed in social agencies or social work programs and are assigned practice experiences to learn skills for work with individuals, families, groups, communities, and organizations. Students are supervised weekly by a professional social worker. Field work placements are normally assigned for 20 hours a week for a yearly minimum total of 550 hours. Some adaptations to this schedule may be developed, such as a 17-hour weekly schedule that extends a month beyond the end of Spring semester but this schedule must be approved by the Field Education Coordinator prior to the start of field work. The Program’s Field Education Coordinator and faculty advisor work closely with students to develop placements that reflect the student's interests and learning needs and manageable schedules and travel routes.

Students should anticipate working during regular 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. work days (Monday through Friday). The Program does not promote placements conducted solely during evening or weekend hours and does not guarantee any placements with evening or weekend hours. Students are informed of the internship demands and time requirements during their interview for Social Work Program admission and are reminded during their Junior Year classes. They are also given an orientation to the field work application process in their Junior Year Spring semester. It is expected that students will arrange their schedules accordingly in advance of their senior year. Students who wish to use their employment site to meet field work requirements should discuss this request with the Field Education Coordinator. Additional requirements for an Employment-based Internship must be met.

Students will attend a mandatory Field Work Orientation in September prior to the start date of field practicum. They also required to attend field seminars with their assigned field faculty (also referred to as a field liaison or field advisor). For full information on the field practicum, a Field Education Manual is distributed to students during the mandatory field work orientation prior to the start of field work.

Students in the social work major should follow the course sequence since many required courses are currently offered only once a year.

REQUIRED SOCIAL WORK COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

BHSC 201 (SOWK 201) Introduction to Social Work
This course is an introductory survey of the social work profession. It provides an overview of principal social work values, codes of ethics, practice and research methods, fields of social work practice, and social welfare policy issues. The course emphasizes the unique experiences of diverse and at-risk population groups facing various social challenges. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 311 Human Behavior and the Social Environment I:
The first course of a two semester sequence in which theory, knowledge and research findings are presented regarding the factors affecting human development and functioning. The course sequence focuses on the biological, psychological, spiritual social, racial and ethnic factors which influence normal development and differences in development. The impact of social systems is presented as they interact and shape individual behaviors. This course introduces the study of the life cycle. Prerequisite: PSYN 101 and SOCL 101. Junior standing and non-majors must obtain permission of the Director of the Social Work Program. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 312 Human Behavior and the Social Environment II:
This second course of a two semester sequence continues its focus on the biological, psychological, social and cultural factors that affect human development and functioning and the impact of social systems in shaping individual and collective behaviors. This course focuses on the study of the full life cycle and life issues, including differences in bio-psycho-social functioning, disorders, and conditions. Prerequisite: SW 311. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 314 Issues of Diversity in Social Work Practice:
This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the impact of race, ethnicity, class, gender and sexual orientation on life styles, options and choices. Students will also learn how oppression, discrimination, stigma, racism and sexism create and affect diverse populations. Implications will be drawn for service delivery and social work practice with and on behalf of clients. Prerequisite: Junior standing and permission of Director of the Social Work Program. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 322 Social Work Practice I:
This course introduces students to social work practice. The focus will be on generalist practice and the different roles and methods practitioners assume in providing service to individuals, families, groups, communities and organizations. Students will learn about the helping process, its application to work with different populations and problems, and about the ethics and values underpinning practice. Prerequisite: Junior standing, SOWK 311 or consent of Director of Social Work Program. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 332 Social Work Research
This course provides a basic introduction to methodology. Topics covered include: developing a researchable question, the values, ethical and political issues involved in developing the question, conducting a literature review, issues of design, measurement techniques, data collection and analysis. Attention paid to linking research to social work practice and the evaluation of service delivery systems. Pre or Co requisite: CISC/MATH 120. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.
SOWK 342 Social Welfare Policy and Services (Policy I):
Students are introduced to the development of social work as a profession. The course focuses on major social welfare policies and programs and the philosophical, economic, social and political forces that shape their development. Students will explore contemporary approaches to social problems, such as health and welfare issues facing families, children and older adults; poverty, unemployment, homelessness, AIDS, mental illness, and developmental disabilities.

The course highlights issues of social and economic justice and the inequities that exist and affect ethnic and racial minorities, women, and other at risk populations. Prerequisite: Junior standing and permission of Director of Social Work Program. 3 sem. Hrs., 3 crs.

SOWK 423 Social Work Practice II:
Students will be introduced to theories, concepts, research findings, and skills common to professional practice. Specific attention will also be devoted to those skills required for working with individuals, collectives (family, groups, and communities) and for intervening in the client's environment. Students will examine the phases of the helping process, starting with the initial phase and assessment and consider their application in different life situations, especially with at risk populations. Students will be taking this course concurrent with their field work placement. Prerequisite: SW 322. Open only to majors. 3 sem hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 424 Social Work Practice III:
This course builds on the content introduced in Social Work Practice II. Students will continue to examine the helping process concentrating on the ongoing and ending phases. The focus will be on using assessment and empirical findings to determine opportunities for multiple levels of intervention and the use of different helping approaches for problem solving. Students will deepen their knowledge of generalist practice concepts and skills for providing service to individuals, families, groups and communities and their application in work with different populations, especially those at risk. The course also emphasizes specific strategies for representing clients’ needs and securing resources through environmental interventions and in carrying out case management and interdisciplinary team activities. Students will learn skills for evaluating their practice. This course is taken concurrently with field work. Prerequisite: SW 423. Open only to majors. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 426 Social Welfare Policy II: Influencing Communities, Organizations, and Social Policy II
This course builds on SOWK 342, Social Welfare Policy and Services by providing students an opportunity to explore in-depth empirically based knowledge, values, and skills required to identify social problems and to assess and influence the communities, organizations, and social policies that affect their clients’ lives. The focus will be on locating dysfunctional structures, processes, and policies that create unjust and oppressive conditions and on developing strategies to influence change. Professional dilemmas or obstacles encountered in that pursuit will be examined. Prerequisites: SOWK 342 and SOWK 423.
SOWK 431 Field Practicum I:
Students are assigned to social agencies or social work programs for 20 hours a week (a minimum of 275 hours a semester.) These settings provide students with assignments to acquire skills in social work practice and with the opportunity to apply theories and principles learned in the classroom to work in the field setting. Students receive individual weekly supervision from a professional social worker and attend field seminar meetings with field faculty. This course is taken concurrently with SW 423. Open only to majors. 6 sem. hrs. 6 crs.

SOWK 432 Field Practicum II:
A continuation of Field Practicum I. Students remain in the same field placement for 20 hours weekly (a minimum of 275 hours a semester) and attend field seminar meetings with field faculty. This course is taken concurrently with SW 424. Prerequisite: SW 431. 6 sem. hrs. 6 crs.

SOWK 435 Social Work with Children and Adolescents: *
This course focuses on the settings that provide service to children and adolescents. Students explore special problems that children and adolescents experience and how these problems affect them and their families. Students learn interventive strategies and techniques, specific to work with this population. Ethical issues and the impact of legislation and policy on practice and resources are considered. Prerequisite: SW 322. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 436 Social Work in Health and Mental Health Services: *
This course provides an overview of health and mental health settings including and the current policies that affect the delivery of services. Emphasis is placed on the major roles carried out by social workers in work with clients and with interdisciplinary staff. Students are familiarized with the range of problems that affect this population and their families and learn strategies and methods for offering help. Prerequisite: SW 322. 3 sem. hrs. 3 crs.

SOWK 497 Independent Study in Social Work *
Independent study is designed for students interested in areas beyond scheduled courses. Studies are supervised by a faculty member. 1-3 crs.

* These are electives for social work majors.
COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND POLICIES

The Program reserves the right to introduce policies, procedures or requirements different from those listed in the Manual if, in the judgment of the faculty, they are warranted.

Attendance and Lateness:
In this major, instructors present content in the classroom that is highly relevant to preparing for the social work profession. Some of this content is not available in the literature; moreover, classroom exercises and interchange among students are viewed as essential to student learning. Therefore, students are expected to attend all classes and to notify the instructor if there is an unavoidable absence.

1. Students are expected to attend all classes
2. If a student must miss up to one class, there is no penalty. However, students are expected to assume initiative for obtaining class notes, assignments and handouts.
3. An instructor may make a ½ grade reduction from the final grade for a student missing 2 or more classes.
4. A student missing 3 or more classes risks a failing grade in the course. An instructor has the right to determine how excused absences will be handled in this policy, and this policy will be announced in class.

Students who arrive late to class, leave class early or take class breaks when class is in session, disrupts the classroom process. A student with repeated unexcused lateness’s (10 minutes or more) or who is disruptive to the classroom process as described can be brought by their advisor to the Committee on Educational Review for consultation and/or disposition. Students are expected to notify the instructor if there is an unavoidable lateness, early departure or any other class disruption.

Inclement or Severe Weather
In the event of inclement or severe weather (or other emergency situations) Mercy College may choose to close or delay its operations in whole or in part. Because weather conditions and other emergencies may not affect all campuses directly, this decision may be made on a campus-by-campus basis.

Information related to closure and delay can be obtained through:
Mercy College Information/Weather Line - 914-674-7777
Mercy Connect - Check Campus Announcements
E-mail - Check both Outlook and Mercy Connect accounts

ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES

FACULTY ADVISEMENT
Each social work major is assigned a faculty advisor in the Program. Students should meet each semester during registration period to discuss course planning and selection with their advisor. Students will also meet with their advisor in the spring semester of their junior year to discuss field placement opportunities and planning for the senior year. From time to time, students may wish to consult their advisors about career planning, employment options, or applying to graduate schools. Finally, students who are experiencing academic or personal difficulties which affect their attendance or performance in classes or the field placement are encouraged to meet with their advisor.

Students cannot register for an independent study or an internship in another major without approval from their social work faculty advisor.

During their year in field placement, students will be assigned to a faculty field liaison that carries overall responsibility for working with the student, the field instructor, and the agency in monitoring, assessing, and consulting on the objectives of the student's field training experience.

REFERENCES
Upon request, the faculty advisor will prepare an official reference describing the student's class and field performance when the student has completed all requirements for graduation. This will be maintained on file at the Social Work office and prospective employers or graduate schools may contact the office directly for a copy. Official College transcripts may be obtained from the Registrar's Office. Students should contact their advisor if they need reference material for graduate school prior to graduation or if they need an employment reference while they are still attending College.

CAREER AND GRADUATE SERVICES
The Social Work Program will offer workshops and individual meetings to assist students with their plans following college graduation. The Program Office maintains a resource file containing catalogs and copies of applications from local graduate Schools of Social Work in the NY area. Students can also go to the website for the Council on Social Work Education, CSWE.org, for information on accredited MSW programs throughout the country. For students who wish to consider or pursue a Master's degree, the Program will offer guidance to students in making choices and in completing application materials. For students who wish to pursue employment in social work, the Program will offer guidance in preparing resumes and in seeking positions. Sample resumes and graduate application essays are available through our Office. Students may also consult the College’s Office of Career Services.
LIBRARY
The Social Work Library subscribes to a large number of journals that are relevant for social work students. Lists of journal collections, including social work, sociology, and psychology may be obtained from the librarians and will also be distributed to students early in their junior year. The library has a vast collection of reference materials and abstracts and students are encouraged to ask the library staff for assistance in locating and using them. The social work book collection is expanding and newer editions of books are also being added. Please let the faculty know if there are books you would suggest we order for the library.

For more information on the online library guide for students in the Social Work Program, go to http://libguides.mercy.edu/sowk

MERCY CONNECT /DEGREE AUDIT
The icon for the Campus Mercy Connect may be found on the right hand side of the Mercy College homepage (www.mercy.edu). When you go to the homepage, you can obtain a PIN number. This resource allows students to get and receive e-mails, contact their instructors, access their schedules, grades, register for classes, add/drop courses, etc. They are also able to check out information regarding their financial aid account. You can access the Mercy Connect from any computer connected to the internet. If you experience difficulty, contact the HELP desk at (914) 674-7526 or the social work office.

BLACKBOARD
Students will be able to access their courses by going to: http://mercy.blackboard.com

Blackboard Assistance for Students:
An Online Student Blackboard Tutorial video will prepare students to navigate online or blended courses at Mercy College. The basic features of Blackboard will be provided along with the resources to ensure a successful online experience.

Virtual Blackboard Tutorial:
https://www.mercy.edu/academics/mercy-online/student-resources/technical-issues/

For additional information, please contact Joan Draper at jdraper@mercy.edu or 914-674-7521.

All Social Work students are required to have a Mercy College e-mail address. E-mails will not be sent to other addresses. If you do not have a Mercy e-mail address, please go to Mercy Connect, and click on the e-mail ICON and follow the directions.
STUDENT CONCERNS OR DIFFICULTIES
During the course of your time at Mercy College, you may find that you are having difficulties. Life circumstances may affect your learning, your course program planning, your attendance, your financial situation, or even your ability to attend College. You may have experiences that affect your performance or potentially jeopardize your education plans because of difficulties in College or in your life outside of College.

A first step if any of these situations occur is to contact your social work faculty advisor. S/he will discuss the problem or issue with you, consider different alternatives and help you to obtain needed resources or services. Because this is a small program, and the entire faculty is eager to be of help to students, you should feel free, as well, to contact the Director of the Program or any other faculty member.

SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

MILITARY VETERANS
Mercy College is a Middle States accredited, "military-friendly" college designated as a Department of Veteran Affairs "Yellow-Ribbon" school, a Service Member Opportunity College (SOC) Consortium member, and a Military Friendly School for 2011 by GI Jobs Magazine.

Any questions about the GI Bill, can contact Albert Oquendo, LTC (Ret), Associate Director of Military Recruitment, at 914-674-7621 or aoquendo1@mercy.edu

We urge you to contact your social work faculty advisor (or the Program Director)
if you have questions or encounter difficulty with any College office or service.
LIBRARY AND WRITING WORKSHOPS

The Program offers a series of workshops to enhance your skills in accessing and using information for educational and future professional use. Upon entry to the Program, students will complete a questionnaire that will help us to know your interests and needs and you will be assigned to a workshop accordingly. One workshop will be held each semester and class time will be allotted for attendance at each workshop.

Students who need help in understanding course material and/or in broadening or enhancing writing skills will be offered various support services both within the College and the Social Work Program. Information regarding these support services will be distributed early in the fall semester. Following entry to the Program, a brief assessment of your writing will assist us in planning for you.

SOCIAL WORK STUDENT HONORS AND GOVERNANCE

National Honor Society in Social Work, Phi Alpha - Eligibility for membership in this honor society are determined after completion of the fall semester, senior year. Criteria for membership are based on excellence in academic achievement and can be obtained at the Social Work office.

Social Work Club - Entering and continuing students established a social work club which will provide opportunities for student governance and activities.
GRADE APPEALS/COMPLAINTS/GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

If students have a complaint about a course grade, disagreements regarding incidents of cheating or plagiarism, or the application of a Mercy College academic policy, they are encouraged, whenever possible to first discuss the issue with the instructor involved. If students are not able to resolve the difference or dispute with the instructor, they should bring the matter to the attention of their faculty advisor, the Director of the Social Work Program and/or the Chair of the appropriate academic division who may be able to assist in a satisfactory resolution.

Students wishing to file an official grievance may obtain a copy of the College Grievance Policy and Procedures at the Office of Student Affairs, Main Hall, Room 235 or Bronx Campus, advising or campus management.

TERMINATION/APPEALS PROCEDURE

In order to remain in the Social Work Program, a student
1. must maintain a 2.8 grade point in social work major courses.
2. must receive a passing grade of at least a C in the field practicum
3. must maintain appropriate professional conduct.
4. should demonstrate competency or satisfactory progress towards achieving in written and verbal communication to function satisfactorily in the field

Professional conduct includes, but is not limited to:
1. Engaging in social work practice under the influence of drugs or alcohol.
2. Behavior that interferes with the student’s academic or professional functioning.
3. Behavior that jeopardizes the welfare of clients.
4. Behavior that is disruptive to the learning of other students or co-workers.
5. Exploitation of a professional relationship for personal gain, etc.
6. Participating or condoning dishonesty, fraud, misrepresentation or deception in the context of one’s educational experience or professional role.
8. Engaging in any form of discrimination.

Students will be notified in writing by their faculty advisor, faculty field liaison, or course instructor if they are at-risk for failing to meet these requirements, and a collateral meeting will usually follow with either the Program Director or Field Coordinator regarding the situation.
THE EDUCATIONAL REVIEW COMMITTEE

The Educational Review Committee (ERC) functions as a consultative and decision-making committee on students at risk in meeting expected standards in the class or in the field, on students who fail to meet expected standards for continuance in the Social Work Program, and on the suitability of the student's educational experience for learning.

Composition: The Educational Review Committee is composed of 3-4 Social Work faculty members, including the Program Director who serves as Chair; and a student who attends if the student under review wishes him/her to be present. If three faculty members cannot attend, the Chair will appoint a member of the Program Advisory Board (or other person e.g. Division faculty or a field instructor) to serve on the Committee.

If a faculty member is presenting a student's situation to the Committee, s/he will not serve on the Committee and another member shall serve in his/her place. As the chair, the Program Director will attend all Educational Review Committee meetings and cannot be a designated advisor to a student going up for review. The Field Coordinator cannot be the advisor of a student going up for review due to Field related issues. For specific information regarding resolving Field issues and the Educational Review Committee, please refer to the Field Educational Manual.

A student representative will be elected by the current social work majors. An alternate student member shall be similarly designated and serve in the absence of the regular student member. Both students must be in good standing and able to assume this important, impartial educational role.

Function: The primary functions of the Educational Review Committee are: 1) to provide consultation to the faculty advisor or faculty field liaison and student on questions related to the student's academic and fieldwork performance and the quality and appropriateness of the field placement experience 2) to make dispositionary judgments and offer alternative recommendations if the student fails to meet academic or field practicum requirements in the major, violates educational or professional standards of conduct, or the student requests review of an educational issue in which the advisor and student did not agree or which may require an exception to policy. Decisions may include a change of field placement, an extension of the semester, or in the case of failure, repetition of the semester in field work, probation, intermittance or termination from the social work major.

Procedures of referral and review: A faculty member or student may initiate a request for Committee review. If the student's academic or field performance is at risk or at a failing level, the following steps should be followed.

1. Emphasis should be on early identification of problems with the focus on exploration and problem identification including any variables in the academic course situation or field placement that may be adversely influencing the student's capacity to learn and meet performance expectations. In the case of a field issue, every effort should be made to address the problems at this level and will usually include meetings between the student, field instructor, and faculty member (field liaison). In the event that the issue cannot be resolved at this level, the Field Education Coordinator will play a more active role in determining the best course of action. This includes the decision to request a Committee review.

2. If a student is at risk or fails to meet the Program’s academic requirements, the student should be presented for review by the Committee. Those standards are identified on the page 14 in this handbook.

3. The faculty advisor and/or faculty field liaison (depending on where the problems are located) must send a written detailed summary (the Guideline is available in the Social Work Program Office). In preparing the report, the faculty member may wish to contact the student's current classroom instructors to request a brief review of the student's current class performance. A student initiating a consultation with the ERC should prepare a statement, identifying the issue, question, or request and offer supporting data. Please note: The Field Education Coordinator cannot serve as a student’s advisor in matters relating to field work.

The Report should be sent to the Committee Chair at least 4 days prior to the meeting.

The faculty member or student who initiates the request for Committee review contacts the Chair, who will arrange a meeting time and ensures that copies of the Report are sent to the student and committee members at least 4 days prior to the meeting.

Students may bring a student advocate, who is a social work major, and should notify the Chair in advance. Students should also indicate if they want the student member present during the meeting. Field Instructors will not routinely attend meetings of the ERC, but may be invited at the discretion of the Chair. Faculty and students should direct any requests for attendance by the field instructor a week prior to the meeting.

4. The Chair will notify the student indicating any decisions that were made. A copy of the Report and a summary of the meeting will be kept in the student's program file

APPEAL: Students may appeal a Committee decision by following the Mercy College Academic Policy and Procedure process as indicated in the Mercy College Handbook and Undergraduate Catalog.
NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY
The policy of Mercy College is that discrimination against any individual for reasons of gender, race, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, age, marital or parental status, ethnicity, citizenship status, veteran or military status, disability or for any other legally protected basis is specifically prohibited. This includes discriminatory language, gestures, and written or electronic communication. Accordingly, equal access to educational programs, employment opportunities, and all other college activities is extended to all eligible persons.

Information concerning non-discrimination policies, including complaint procedures, may be obtained from the following individuals:
- For Students: Deputy Director of PACT
- For Faculty and Administration: Provost
- For Staff: Director of Human Resources
- For Handicapped Services: Director of Disability Services

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
Mercy College is committed to the availability of its academic offerings to all qualified students, in compliance with section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disability Act (ADA).

The Office of Disability Services (Office of ACCESSibility) coordinates disabilities services, including the provision of auxiliary services. Students whose disabilities may require some type of accommodation must self-identify and complete a “Request for Accommodations” agreement. An intake interview with the Director for Disabilities Services may be required. Both the request for accommodations and the interview should be completed one month prior to the academic term. Reasonable accommodations will be made upon receipt of medical documentation of the disability, which supports the request and need for the accommodation. Appropriate modifications of accommodations will be worked out on a case-by-case basis.

Requests for testing with accommodations should be made to the Director for Disabilities Services two weeks in advance of need. Students with disability for which they are or may be requesting an accommodation are encouraged to contact the Office of ACCESSibility, Main Hall, Room 108, (914) 674-7523, as soon as possible in the term.
CHEATING AND PLAGIARISM
Cheating and plagiarism are contrary to the purpose of any educational institution and must be dealt with severely if students’ work is to have any validity. An instructor who determines that a student has cheated on a test or assignment will, at a minimum, give a zero for that item and may give a failure for the course. Normally the matter is handled between the instructor and the student, but the department chairperson may be consulted by either party to ensure fairness.

Plagiarism, which is the appropriation of words or ideas of another without recognition of the source, is another form of cheating. An instructor who determines that a student has plagiarized will give a zero for the paper or project and may give a failure for the course.

Both cheating and plagiarism are grounds for dismissal from the college.

Any action taken regarding cheating or plagiarism is subject to the Academic Grievance Policy outlined in above and in the Student Handbook.

COMMUNICATION POLICY:
Each professor in the Social Work Program makes it clear in the syllabus what the standard operating procedures are for communication with him/her, including the means and the anticipated turn-around time. Given the increase of social media, each professor gives thought to the balance between all the communication choices and the needs the program regarding the professional boundaries that govern social work practice. Students must understand that the same ethical standards (as indicated by the NASW code of ethics) apply in the virtual world as in the physical world.
SOCIAL WORK PROGRAM ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Social Work Program has an Advisory Committee composed of social work educators and professionals from the social work community, who work in various fields of practice in the greater New York metropolitan area. The Committee is chaired by the Program's Director and includes social work students and alumni representatives. The community professional members include:

WENDY BREITNER, Dir. of Social Work, Westchester Institute for Human Development, The Family Program
DIANE GITELSON, Director of Social Work Dept., Sky View Nursing Home
CYNTHIA ISAAC-GUEYE, Program Director, Unique Peoples Services
GEORGE LEWART, Educational Coordinator, Columbia Presbyterian Hospital
MILISSA ARONSON, Educational Coordinator, Center for Urban Community Services
REGIS McDONALD, Vice President for Quality Improvement, Program and Policy Development, Children’s Village
RON MCGREGOR, Supervising Probation Officer, Dept. of Probation, Westchester City.

Ricardo Torress, Director of Family Services, WestHab

SANDRA QUIROS, Social Worker, Open Door
George Lewert, Social Work Manger, New York Presbyterian Hospital, Columbia University Medical Center

CAROL BENNETT-SPEIGHT, Ex officio, Associate Professor and Program Director, Mercy College

Jane Hogan, Ex-officio, Field Education Coordinator, Mercy College

This Committee serves in an advisory and consultative role on educational policies, practice and program issues.
ACCREDITATION

Mercy College offers a B.S. degree in Social Work that is approved by the New York State Department of Education. The Social Work Program is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education.

NON-DISCRIMINATION and SEXUAL HARRASSMENT POLICIES

Mercy College has nondiscrimination, sexual harassment and affirmative action policies and procedures that cover faculty, staff, students and applicants of the institution. Mercy College is committed to these policies and the Social Work Program, an integral part of the College, supports and complies with them. College policies are in the Mercy College Catalog and Student Handbook.

CHANGES IN ADDRESS OR TELEPHONE NUMBERS:

Students are asked to report changes in address or telephone number to the Social Work Office, (914) 674-7301, as well as to the Registrar’s Office at the College.
APPENDIX
Dear Student:

Thank you for your interest in the Social Work major. The Program will review both your interview responses as well as your writing sample and will send you a letter of determination within a few weeks.

As discussed during your interview, you acknowledge and you understand:

☐ Once admitted into the Program, you must maintain a GPA of 2.8

☐ During your senior year, you are required to complete a 550-hour internship at an agency that will be assigned to you.
  - You will complete 275 hours during the fall semester and 275 hours in the spring semester.
  - You must conduct your internship within the regular business week (Monday through Fridays from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.).
  - You cannot conduct your internship solely during evenings and weekends. There are no exceptions to this.
  - Even though you may currently be employed at an agency, hospital, or other human service organization, this does not guarantee you can conduct your internship at the place of your employment.

☐ You must conduct yourself professionally. This means dressing appropriately and interacting professionally with your peers and supervisors both on and off campus.

A copy of this signed form will be kept in your student file. If you have any questions or concerns regarding these requirements or this acknowledgement form, please do not hesitate to contact a Social Work faculty member.

Code of Ethics
of the National Association of Social Workers

Approved by the 1996 NASW Delegate Assembly and revised by the 2008 NASW Delegate Assembly.

The 2008 NASW Delegate Assembly approved the following revisions to the NASW:

1.05 Cultural Competence and Social Diversity

(c) Social workers should obtain education about and seek to understand the nature of social diversity and oppression with respect to race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, and mental or physical disability.

2.01 Respect

(a) Social workers should treat colleagues with respect and should represent accurately and fairly the qualifications, views, and obligations of colleagues.
(b) Social workers should avoid unwarranted negative criticism of colleagues in communications with clients or with other professionals. Unwarranted negative criticism may include demeaning comments that refer to colleagues’ level of competence or to individuals’ attributes such as race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, and mental or physical disability.

4.02 Discrimination

Social workers should not practice, condone, facilitate, or collaborate with any form of discrimination on the basis of race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, or mental or physical disability.

6.04 Social and Political Action

(d) Social workers should act to prevent and eliminate domination of, exploitation of, and discrimination against any person, group, or class on the basis of race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, or mental or physical disability.

Preamble

The primary mission of the social work profession is to enhance human well being and help meet the basic human needs of all people, with particular attention to the needs and empowerment of people who are vulnerable, oppressed, and living in poverty. A historic and defining feature of social work is the profession’s focus on individual well being in a social context and the well being of society. Fundamental to social work is attention to the environmental forces that create, contribute to, and address problems in living.

Social workers promote social justice and social change with and on behalf of clients. “Clients” is used inclusively to refer to individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers are sensitive to cultural and ethnic diversity and strive to end discrimination, oppression, poverty, and other forms of social injustice. These activities may be in the form of direct practice, community organizing, supervision, consultation administration, advocacy, social and political action, policy development and implementation, education, and research and evaluation. Social workers seek to enhance the capacity of people to address their own needs. Social workers also seek to promote the responsiveness of organizations, communities, and other social institutions to individuals’ needs and social problems.
The mission of the social work profession is rooted in a set of core values. These core values, embraced by social workers throughout the profession’s history, are the foundation of social work’s unique purpose and perspective:

- service
- social justice
- dignity and worth of the person
- importance of human relationships
- integrity
- competence.

This constellation of core values reflects what is unique to the social work profession. Core values, and the principles that flow from them, must be balanced within the context and complexity of the human experience.

Purpose of the NASW Code of Ethics

Professional ethics are at the core of social work. The profession has an obligation to articulate its basic values, ethical principles, and ethical standards. The NASW Code of Ethics sets forth these values, principles, and standards to guide social workers’ conduct. The Code is relevant to all social workers and social work students, regardless of their professional functions, the settings in which they work, or the populations they serve.

The NASW Code of Ethics serves six purposes:

1. The Code identifies core values on which social work’s mission is based.
2. The Code summarizes broad ethical principles that reflect the profession’s core values and establishes a set of specific ethical standards that should be used to guide social work practice.
3. The Code is designed to help social workers identify relevant considerations when professional obligations conflict or ethical uncertainties arise.
4. The Code provides ethical standards to which the general public can hold the social work profession accountable.
5. The Code socializes practitioners new to the field to social work’s mission, values, ethical principles, and ethical standards.
6. The Code articulates standards that the social work profession itself can use to assess whether social workers have engaged in unethical conduct. NASW has formal procedures to adjudicate ethics complaints filed against its members.* In subscribing to this Code, social workers are required to cooperate in its implementation, participate in NASW adjudication proceedings, and abide by any NASW disciplinary rulings or sanctions based on it.

The Code offers a set of values, principles, and standards to guide decision making and conduct when ethical issues arise. It does not provide a set of rules that prescribe how social workers should act in all situations. Specific applications of the Code must take into account the context in which it is being considered and the possibility of conflicts among the Code’s values, principles, and standards. Ethical responsibilities flow from all human relationships, from the personal and familial to the social and professional.

Further, the NASW Code of Ethics does not specify which values, principles, and standards are most important and ought to outweigh others in instances when they conflict. Reasonable differences of opinion can and do exist among social workers with respect to the ways in which values, ethical principles, and ethical standards should be rank ordered when they conflict. Ethical decision making in a given situation must apply the informed judgment of the individual social worker and should also consider how the issues would be judged in a peer review process where the ethical standards of the profession would be applied.

Ethical decision making is a process. There are many instances in social work where simple answers are not available to resolve complex ethical issues. Social workers should take into consideration all the values, principles, and standards in this Code that are relevant to any situation in which ethical judgment is warranted. Social workers’ decisions and actions should be consistent with the spirit as well as the letter of this Code.
In addition to this Code, there are many other sources of information about ethical thinking that may be useful. Social workers should consider ethical theory and principles generally, social work theory and research, laws, regulations, agency policies, and other relevant codes of ethics, recognizing that among codes of ethics social workers should consider the NASW Code of Ethics as their primary source. Social workers also should be aware of the impact on ethical decision making of their clients’ and their own personal values and cultural and religious beliefs and practices. They should be aware of any conflicts between personal and professional values and deal with them responsibly. For additional guidance social workers should consult the relevant literature on professional ethics and ethical decision making and seek appropriate consultation when faced with ethical dilemmas. This may involve consultation with an agency based or social work organization’s ethics committee, a regulatory body, knowledgeable colleagues, supervisors, or legal counsel.

Instances may arise when social workers’ ethical obligations conflict with agency policies or relevant laws or regulations. When such conflicts occur, social workers must make a responsible effort to resolve the conflict in a manner that is consistent with the values, principles, and standards expressed in this Code. If a reasonable resolution of the conflict does not appear possible, social workers should seek proper consultation before making a decision.

The NASW Code of Ethics is to be used by NASW and by individuals, agencies, organizations, and bodies (such as licensing and regulatory boards, professional liability insurance providers, courts of law, agency boards of directors, government agencies, and other professional groups) that choose to adopt it or use it as a frame of reference. Violation of standards in this Code does not automatically imply legal liability or violation of the law. Such determination can only be made in the context of legal and judicial proceedings. Alleged violations of the Code would be subject to a peer review process. Such processes are generally separate from legal or administrative procedures and insulated from legal review or proceedings to allow the profession to counsel and discipline its own members.

A code of ethics cannot guarantee ethical behavior. Moreover, a code of ethics cannot resolve all ethical issues or disputes or capture the richness and complexity involved in striving to make responsible choices within a moral community. Rather, a code of ethics sets forth values, ethical principles, and ethical standards to which professionals aspire and by which their actions can be judged. Social workers’ ethical behavior should result from their personal commitment to engage in ethical practice. The NASW Code of Ethics reflects the commitment of all social workers to uphold the profession’s values and to act ethically. Principles and standards must be applied by individuals of good character who discern moral questions and, in good faith, seek to make reliable ethical judgments.

Ethical Principles
The following broad ethical principles are based on social work’s core values of service, social justice, dignity and worth of the person, importance of human relationships, integrity, and competence. These principles set forth ideals to which all social workers should aspire.

Value: Service

Ethical Principle: Social workers’ primary goal is to help people in need and to address social problems. Social workers elevate service to others above self-interest. Social workers draw on their knowledge, values, and skills to help people in need and to address social problems. Social workers are encouraged to volunteer some portion of their professional skills with no expectation of significant financial return (pro bono service).

Value: Social Justice

Ethical Principle: Social workers challenge social injustice. Social workers pursue social change, particularly with and on behalf of vulnerable and oppressed individuals and groups of people. Social workers’ social change efforts are focused primarily on issues of poverty, unemployment, discrimination, and other forms of social injustice. These activities seek to promote sensitivity to and knowledge about oppression and cultural and ethnic diversity. Social workers strive to ensure access to needed information, services, and resources; equality of opportunity; and meaningful participation in decision making for all people.

Value: Dignity and Worth of the Person
Ethical Principle: Social workers respect the inherent dignity and worth of the person.
Social workers treat each person in a caring and respectful fashion, mindful of individual differences and cultural and ethnic diversity. Social workers promote clients’ socially responsible self-determination. Social workers seek to enhance clients’ capacity and opportunity to change and to address their own needs. Social workers are cognizant of their dual responsibility to clients and to the broader society. They seek to resolve conflicts between clients’ interests and the broader society’s interests in a socially responsible manner consistent with the values, ethical principles, and ethical standards of the profession.

Value: Importance of Human Relationships

Ethical Principle: Social workers recognize the central importance of human relationships.
Social workers understand that relationships between and among people are an important vehicle for change. Social workers engage people as partners in the helping process. Social workers seek to strengthen relationships among people in a purposeful effort to promote, restore, maintain, and enhance the wellbeing of individuals, families, social groups, organizations, and communities.

Value: Integrity

Ethical Principle: Social workers behave in a trustworthy manner.
Social workers are continually aware of the profession’s mission, values, ethical principles, and ethical standards and practice in a manner consistent with them. Social workers act honestly and responsibly and promote ethical practices on the part of the organizations with which they are affiliated.

Value: Competence

Ethical Principle: Social workers practice within their areas of competence and develop and enhance their professional expertise.
Social workers continually strive to increase their professional knowledge and skills and to apply them in practice. Social workers should aspire to contribute to the knowledge base of the profession.

Ethical Standards

The following ethical standards are relevant to the professional activities of all social workers. These standards concern (1) social workers’ ethical responsibilities to clients, (2) social workers’ ethical responsibilities to colleagues, (3) social workers’ ethical responsibilities in practice settings, (4) social workers’ ethical responsibilities as professionals, (5) social workers’ ethical responsibilities to the social work profession, and (6) social workers’ ethical responsibilities to the broader society.

Some of the standards that follow are enforceable guidelines for professional conduct, and some are aspirational. The extent to which each standard is enforceable is a matter of professional judgment to be exercised by those responsible for reviewing alleged violations of ethical standards.

1. SOCIAL WORKERS’ ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES TO CLIENTS
1.01 Commitment to Clients

Social workers’ primary responsibility is to promote the wellbeing of clients. In general, clients’ interests are primary. However, social workers’ responsibility to the larger society or specific legal obligations may on limited occasions supersede the loyalty owed clients, and clients should be so advised. (Examples include when a social worker is required by law to report that a client has abused a child or has threatened to harm self or others.)
1.02 Self-Determination

Social workers respect and promote the right of clients to self-determination and assist clients in their efforts to identify and clarify their goals. Social workers may limit clients’ right to self-determination when, in the social workers’ professional judgment, clients’ actions or potential actions pose a serious, foreseeable, and imminent risk to themselves or others.

1.03 Informed Consent

(a) Social workers should provide services to clients only in the context of a professional relationship based, when appropriate, on valid informed consent. Social workers should use clear and understandable language to inform clients of the purpose of the services, risks related to the services, limits to services because of the requirements of a third-party payer, relevant costs, reasonable alternatives, clients’ right to refuse or withdraw consent, and the time frame covered by the consent. Social workers should provide clients with an opportunity to ask questions.

(b) In instances when clients are not literate or have difficulty understanding the primary language used in the practice setting, social workers should take steps to ensure clients’ comprehension. This may include providing clients with a detailed verbal explanation or arranging for a qualified interpreter or translator whenever possible.

(c) In instances when clients lack the capacity to provide informed consent, social workers should protect clients’ interests by seeking permission from an appropriate third party, informing clients consistent with the clients’ level of understanding. In such instances social workers should seek to ensure that the third party acts in a manner consistent with clients’ wishes and interests. Social workers should take reasonable steps to enhance such clients’ ability to give informed consent.

(d) In instances when clients are receiving services involuntarily, social workers should provide information about the nature and extent of services and about the extent of clients’ right to refuse service.

(e) Social workers who provide services via electronic media (such as computer, telephone, radio, and television) should inform recipients of the limitations and risks associated with such services.

(f) Social workers should obtain clients’ informed consent before audiotaping or videotaping clients or permitting observation of services to clients by a third party.

1.04 Competence

(a) Social workers should provide services and represent themselves as competent only within the boundaries of their education, training, license, certification, consultation received, supervised experience, or other relevant professional experience.

(b) Social workers should provide services in substantive areas or use intervention techniques or approaches that are new to them only after engaging in appropriate study, training, consultation, and supervision from people who are competent in those interventions or techniques.

(c) When generally recognized standards do not exist with respect to an emerging area of practice, social workers should exercise careful judgment and take responsible steps (including appropriate education, research, training, consultation, and supervision) to ensure the competence of their work and to protect clients from harm.

1.05 Cultural Competence and Social Diversity

(a) Social workers should understand culture and its function in human behavior and society, recognizing the strengths that exist in all cultures.
(b) Social workers should have a knowledge base of their clients’ cultures and be able to demonstrate competence in the provision of services that are sensitive to clients’ cultures and to differences among people and cultural groups.

(c) Social workers should obtain education about and seek to understand the nature of social diversity and oppression with respect to race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, and mental or physical disability.

1.06 Conflicts of Interest

(a) Social workers should be alert to and avoid conflicts of interest that interfere with the exercise of professional discretion and impartial judgment. Social workers should inform clients when a real or potential conflict of interest arises and take reasonable steps to resolve the issue in a manner that makes the clients’ interests primary and protects clients’ interests to the greatest extent possible. In some cases, protecting clients’ interests may require termination of the professional relationship with proper referral of the client.

(b) Social workers should not take unfair advantage of any professional relationship or exploit others to further their personal, religious, political, or business interests.

(c) Social workers should not engage in dual or multiple relationships with clients or former clients in which there is a risk of exploitation or potential harm to the client. In instances when dual or multiple relationships are unavoidable, social workers should take steps to protect clients and are responsible for setting clear, appropriate, and culturally sensitive boundaries. (Dual or multiple relationships occur when social workers relate to clients in more than one relationship, whether professional, social, or business. Dual or multiple relationships can occur simultaneously or consecutively.)

(d) When social workers provide services to two or more people who have a relationship with each other (for example, couples, family members), social workers should clarify with all parties which individuals will be considered clients and the nature of social workers’ professional obligations to the various individuals who are receiving services. Social workers who anticipate a conflict of interest among the individuals receiving services or who anticipate having to perform in potentially conflicting roles (for example, when a social worker is asked to testify in a child custody dispute or divorce proceedings involving clients) should clarify their role with the parties involved and take appropriate action to minimize any conflict of interest.

1.07 Privacy and Confidentiality

(a) Social workers should respect clients’ right to privacy. Social workers should not solicit private information from clients unless it is essential to providing services or conducting social work evaluation or research. Once private information is shared, standards of confidentiality apply.

(b) Social workers may disclose confidential information when appropriate with valid consent from a client or a person legally authorized to consent on behalf of a client.

(c) Social workers should protect the confidentiality of all information obtained in the course of professional service, except for compelling professional reasons. The general expectation that social workers will keep information confidential does not apply when disclosure is necessary to prevent serious, foreseeable, and imminent harm to a client or other identifiable person. In all instances, social workers should disclose the least amount of confidential information necessary to achieve the desired purpose; only information that is directly relevant to the purpose for which the disclosure is made should be revealed.

(d) Social workers should inform clients, to the extent possible, about the disclosure of confidential information and the potential consequences, when feasible before the disclosure is made. This applies whether social workers disclose confidential information on the basis of a legal requirement or client consent.
(e) Social workers should discuss with clients and other interested parties the nature of confidentiality and limitations of clients’ right to confidentiality. Social workers should review with clients’ circumstances where confidential information may be requested and where disclosure of confidential information may be legally required. This discussion should occur as soon as possible in the social worker-client relationship and as needed throughout the course of the relationship.

(f) When social workers provide counseling services to families, couples, or groups, social workers should seek agreement among the parties involved concerning each individual’s right to confidentiality and obligation to preserve the confidentiality of information shared by others. Social workers should inform participants in family, couples, or group counseling that social workers cannot guarantee that all participants will honor such agreements.

(g) Social workers should inform clients involved in family, couples, marital, or group counseling of the social worker’s, employer’s, and agency’s policy concerning the social worker’s disclosure of confidential information among the parties involved in the counseling.

(h) Social workers should not disclose confidential information to third party payers unless clients have authorized such disclosure.

(i) Social workers should not discuss confidential information in any setting unless privacy can be ensured. Social workers should not discuss confidential information in public or semipublic areas such as hallways, waiting rooms, elevators, and restaurants.

(j) Social workers should protect the confidentiality of clients during legal proceedings to the extent permitted by law. When a court of law or other legally authorized body orders social workers to disclose confidential or privileged information without a client’s consent and such disclosure could cause harm to the client, social workers should request that the court withdraw the order or limit the order as narrowly as possible or maintain the records under seal, unavailable for public inspection.

(k) Social workers should protect the confidentiality of clients when responding to requests from members of the media.

(l) Social workers should protect the confidentiality of clients’ written and electronic records and other sensitive information. Social workers should take reasonable steps to ensure that clients’ records are stored in a secure location and that clients’ records are not available to others who are not authorized to have access.

(m) Social workers should take precautions to ensure and maintain the confidentiality of information transmitted to other parties through the use of computers, electronic mail, facsimile machines, telephones and telephone answering machines, and other electronic or computer technology. Disclosure of identifying information should be avoided whenever possible.

(n) Social workers should transfer or dispose of clients’ records in a manner that protects clients’ confidentiality and is consistent with state statutes governing records and social work licensure.

(o) Social workers should take reasonable precautions to protect client confidentiality in the event of the social worker’s termination of practice, incapacitation, or death.

(p) Social workers should not disclose identifying information when discussing clients for teaching or training purposes unless the client has consented to disclosure of confidential information.

(q) Social workers should not disclose identifying information when discussing clients with consultants unless the client has consented to disclosure of confidential information or there is a compelling need for such disclosure.

(r) Social workers should protect the confidentiality of deceased clients consistent with the preceding standards.
1.08 Access to Records

(a) Social workers should provide clients with reasonable access to records concerning the clients. Social workers who are concerned that clients’ access to their records could cause serious misunderstanding or harm to the client should provide assistance in interpreting the records and consultation with the client regarding the records. Social workers should limit clients’ access to their records, or portions of their records, only in exceptional circumstances when there is compelling evidence that such access would cause serious harm to the client. Both clients’ requests and the rationale for withholding some or all of the record should be documented in clients’ files.

(b) When providing clients with access to their records, social workers should take steps to protect the confidentiality of other individuals identified or discussed in such records.

1.09 Sexual Relationships

(a) Social workers should under no circumstances engage in sexual activities or sexual contact with current clients, whether such contact is consensual or forced.

(b) Social workers should not engage in sexual activities or sexual contact with clients’ relatives or other individuals with whom clients maintain a close personal relationship when there is a risk of exploitation or potential harm to the client. Sexual activity or sexual contact with clients’ relatives or other individuals with whom clients maintain a personal relationship has the potential to be harmful to the client and may make it difficult for the social worker and client to maintain appropriate professional boundaries. Social workers—not their clients, their clients’ relatives, or other individuals with whom the client maintains a personal relationship—assume the full burden for setting clear, appropriate, and culturally sensitive boundaries.

(c) Social workers should not engage in sexual activities or sexual contact with former clients because of the potential for harm to the client. If social workers engage in conduct contrary to this prohibition or claim that an exception to this prohibition is warranted because of extraordinary circumstances, it is social workers—who assume the full burden of demonstrating that the former client has not been exploited, coerced, or manipulated, intentionally or unintentionally.

(d) Social workers should not provide clinical services to individuals with whom they have had a prior sexual relationship. Providing clinical services to a former sexual partner has the potential to be harmful to the individual and is likely to make it difficult for the social worker and individual to maintain appropriate professional boundaries.

1.10 Physical Contact

Social workers should not engage in physical contact with clients when there is a possibility of psychological harm to the client as a result of the contact (such as cradling or caressing clients). Social workers who engage in appropriate physical contact with clients are responsible for setting clear, appropriate, and culturally sensitive boundaries that govern such physical contact.

1.11 Sexual Harassment

Social workers should not sexually harass clients. Sexual harassment includes sexual advances, sexual solicitation, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

1.12 Derogatory Language

Social workers should not use derogatory language in their written or verbal communications to or about clients. Social workers should use accurate and respectful language in all communications to and about clients.
1.13 Payment for Services

(a) When setting fees, social workers should ensure that the fees are fair, reasonable, and commensurate with the services performed. Consideration should be given to clients’ ability to pay.

(b) Social workers should avoid accepting goods or services from clients as payment for professional services. Bartering arrangements, particularly involving services, create the potential for conflicts of interest, exploitation, and inappropriate boundaries in social workers’ relationships with clients. Social workers should explore and may participate in bartering only in very limited circumstances when it can be demonstrated that such arrangements are an accepted practice among professionals in the local community, considered to be essential for the provision of services, negotiated without coercion, and entered into at the client’s initiative and with the client’s informed consent. Social workers who accept goods or services from clients as payment for professional services assume the full burden of demonstrating that this arrangement will not be detrimental to the client or the professional relationship.

(c) Social workers should not solicit a private fee or other remuneration for providing services to clients who are entitled to such available services through the social workers’ employer or agency.

1.14 Clients Who Lack Decision-Making Capacity

When social workers act on behalf of clients who lack the capacity to make informed decisions, social workers should take reasonable steps to safeguard the interests and rights of those clients.

1.15 Interruption of Services

Social workers should make reasonable efforts to ensure continuity of services in the event that services are interrupted by factors such as unavailability, relocation, illness, disability, or death.

1.16 Termination of Services

(a) Social workers should terminate services to clients and professional relationships with them when such services and relationships are no longer required or no longer serve the clients’ needs or interests.

(b) Social workers should take reasonable steps to avoid abandoning clients who are still in need of services. Social workers should withdraw services precipitously only under unusual circumstances, giving careful consideration to all factors in the situation and taking care to minimize possible adverse effects. Social workers should assist in making appropriate arrangements for continuation of services when necessary.

(c) Social workers in fee-for-service settings may terminate services to clients who are not paying an overdue balance if the financial contractual arrangements have been made clear to the client, if the client does not pose an imminent danger to self or others, and if the clinical and other consequences of the current nonpayment have been addressed and discussed with the client.

(d) Social workers should not terminate services to pursue a social, financial, or sexual relationship with a client.

(e) Social workers who anticipate the termination or interruption of services to clients should notify clients promptly and seek the transfer, referral, or continuation of services in relation to the clients’ needs and preferences.

(f) Social workers who are leaving an employment setting should inform clients of appropriate options for the continuation of services and of the benefits and risks of the options.
2. SOCIAL WORKERS’ ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES TO COLLEAGUES

2.01 Respect

(a) Social workers should treat colleagues with respect and should represent accurately and fairly the qualifications, views, and obligations of colleagues.
(b) Social workers should avoid unwarranted negative criticism of colleagues in communications with clients or with other professionals. Unwarranted negative criticism may include demeaning comments that refer to colleagues’ level of competence or to individuals’ attributes such as race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, and mental or physical disability.
(c) Social workers should cooperate with social work colleagues and with colleagues of other professions when such cooperation serves the wellbeing of clients.

2.02 Confidentiality

Social workers should respect confidential information shared by colleagues in the course of their professional relationships and transactions. Social workers should ensure that such colleagues understand social workers’ obligation to respect confidentiality and any exceptions related to it.

2.03 Interdisciplinary Collaboration

(a) Social workers who are members of an interdisciplinary team should participate in and contribute to decisions that affect the wellbeing of clients by drawing on the perspectives, values, and experiences of the social work profession. Professional and ethical obligations of the interdisciplinary team as a whole and of its individual members should be clearly established.

(b) Social workers for whom a team decision raises ethical concerns should attempt to resolve the disagreement through appropriate channels. If the disagreement cannot be resolved, social workers should pursue other avenues to address their concerns consistent with client wellbeing.

2.04 Disputes Involving Colleagues

(a) Social workers should not take advantage of a dispute between a colleague and an employer to obtain a position or otherwise advance the social workers’ own interests.

(b) Social workers should not exploit clients in disputes with colleagues or engage clients in any inappropriate discussion of conflicts between social workers and their colleagues.

2.05 Consultation

(a) Social workers should seek the advice and counsel of colleagues whenever such consultation is in the best interests of clients.

(b) Social workers should keep themselves informed about colleagues’ areas of expertise and competencies. Social workers should seek consultation only from colleagues who have demonstrated knowledge, expertise, and competence related to the subject of the consultation.

(c) When consulting with colleagues about clients, social workers should disclose the least amount of information necessary to achieve the purposes of the consultation.
2.06 Referral for Services

(a) Social workers should refer clients to other professionals when the other professionals’ specialized knowledge or expertise is needed to serve clients fully or when social workers believe that they are not being effective or making reasonable progress with clients and that additional service is required.

(b) Social workers who refer clients to other professionals should take appropriate steps to facilitate an orderly transfer of responsibility. Social workers who refer clients to other professionals should disclose, with clients’ consent, all pertinent information to the new service providers.

(c) Social workers are prohibited from giving or receiving payment for a referral when no professional service is provided by the referring social worker.

2.07 Sexual Relationships

(a) Social workers who function as supervisors or educators should not engage in sexual activities or contact with supervisees, students, trainees, or other colleagues over whom they exercise professional authority.

(b) Social workers should avoid engaging in sexual relationships with colleagues when there is potential for a conflict of interest. Social workers who become involved in, or anticipate becoming involved in, a sexual relationship with a colleague have a duty to transfer professional responsibilities, when necessary, to avoid a conflict of interest.

2.08 Sexual Harassment

Social workers should not sexually harass supervisees, students, trainees, or colleagues. Sexual harassment includes sexual advances, sexual solicitation, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

2.09 Impairment of Colleagues

(a) Social workers who have direct knowledge of a social work colleague’s impairment that is due to personal problems, psychosocial distress, substance abuse, or mental health difficulties and that interferes with practice effectiveness should consult with that colleague when feasible and assist the colleague in taking remedial action.

(b) Social workers who believe that a social work colleague’s impairment interferes with practice effectiveness and that the colleague has not taken adequate steps to address the impairment should take action through appropriate channels established by employers, agencies, NASW, licensing and regulatory bodies, and other professional organizations.

2.10 Incompetence of Colleagues

(a) Social workers who have direct knowledge of a social work colleague’s incompetence should consult with that colleague when feasible and assist the colleague in taking remedial action.

(b) Social workers who believe that a social work colleague is incompetent and has not taken adequate steps to address the incompetence should take action through appropriate channels established by employers, agencies, NASW, licensing and regulatory bodies, and other professional organizations.

2.11 Unethical Conduct of Colleagues

(a) Social workers should take adequate measures to discourage, prevent, expose, and correct the unethical conduct of colleagues.
(b) Social workers should be knowledgeable about established policies and procedures for handling concerns about colleagues’ unethical behavior. Social workers should be familiar with national, state, and local procedures for handling ethics complaints. These include policies and procedures created by NASW, licensing and regulatory bodies, employers, agencies, and other professional organizations.

(c) Social workers who believe that a colleague has acted unethically should seek resolution by discussing their concerns with the colleague when feasible and when such discussion is likely to be productive.

(d) When necessary, social workers who believe that a colleague has acted unethically should take action through appropriate formal channels (such as contacting a state licensing board or regulatory body, an NASW committee on inquiry, or other professional ethics committees).

(e) Social workers should defend and assist colleagues who are unjustly charged with unethical conduct.

3. SOCIAL WORKERS’ ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES IN PRACTICE SETTINGS

3.01 Supervision and Consultation

(a) Social workers who provide supervision or consultation should have the necessary knowledge and skill to supervise or consult appropriately and should do so only within their areas of knowledge and competence.

(b) Social workers who provide supervision or consultation are responsible for setting clear, appropriate, and culturally sensitive boundaries.

(c) Social workers should not engage in any dual or multiple relationships with supervisees in which there is a risk of exploitation of or potential harm to the supervisee.

(d) Social workers who provide supervision should evaluate supervisees’ performance in a manner that is fair and respectful.

3.02 Education and Training

(a) Social workers who function as educators, field instructors for students, or trainers should provide instruction only within their areas of knowledge and competence and should provide instruction based on the most current information and knowledge available in the profession.

(b) Social workers who function as educators or field instructors for students should evaluate students’ performance in a manner that is fair and respectful.

(c) Social workers who function as educators or field instructors for students should take reasonable steps to ensure that clients are routinely informed when services are being provided by students.

(d) Social workers who function as educators or field instructors for students should not engage in any dual or multiple relationships with students in which there is a risk of exploitation or potential harm to the student. Social work educators and field instructors are responsible for setting clear, appropriate, and culturally sensitive boundaries.

3.03 Performance Evaluation

Social workers who have responsibility for evaluating the performance of others should fulfill such responsibility in a fair and considerate manner and on the basis of clearly stated criteria.
3.04 Client Records

(a) Social workers should take reasonable steps to ensure that documentation in records is accurate and reflects the services provided.

(b) Social workers should include sufficient and timely documentation in records to facilitate the delivery of services and to ensure continuity of services provided to clients in the future.

(c) Social workers’ documentation should protect clients’ privacy to the extent that is possible and appropriate and should include only information that is directly relevant to the delivery of services.

(d) Social workers should store records following the termination of services to ensure reasonable future access. Records should be maintained for the number of years required by state statutes or relevant contracts.

3.05 Billing

Social workers should establish and maintain billing practices that accurately reflect the nature and extent of services provided and that identify who provided the service in the practice setting.

3.06 Client Transfer

(a) When an individual who is receiving services from another agency or colleague contacts a social worker for services, the social worker should carefully consider the client’s needs before agreeing to provide services. To minimize possible confusion and conflict, social workers should discuss with potential clients the nature of the clients’ current relationship with other service providers and the implications, including possible benefits or risks, of entering into a relationship with a new service provider.

(b) If a new client has been served by another agency or colleague, social workers should discuss with the client whether consultation with the previous service provider is in the client’s best interest.

3.07 Administration

(a) Social work administrators should advocate within and outside their agencies for adequate resources to meet clients’ needs.

(b) Social workers should advocate for resource allocation procedures that are open and fair. When not all clients’ needs can be met, an allocation procedure should be developed that is nondiscriminatory and based on appropriate and consistently applied principles.

(c) Social workers who are administrators should take reasonable steps to ensure that adequate agency or organizational resources are available to provide appropriate staff supervision.

(d) Social work administrators should take reasonable steps to ensure that the working environment for which they are responsible is consistent with and encourages compliance with the NASW Code of Ethics. Social work administrators should take reasonable steps to eliminate any conditions in their organizations that violate, interfere with, or discourage compliance with the Code.

3.08 Continuing Education and Staff Development

Social work administrators and supervisors should take reasonable steps to provide or arrange for continuing education and staff development for all staff for whom they are responsible. Continuing education and staff development should address current knowledge and emerging developments related to social work practice and ethics.
3.09 Commitments to Employers

(a) Social workers generally should adhere to commitments made to employers and employing organizations.

(b) Social workers should work to improve employing agencies’ policies and procedures and the efficiency and effectiveness of their services.

(c) Social workers should take reasonable steps to ensure that employers are aware of social workers’ ethical obligations as set forth in the \textit{NASW Code of Ethics} and of the implications of those obligations for social work practice.

(d) Social workers should not allow an employing organization’s policies, procedures, regulations, or administrative orders to interfere with their ethical practice of social work. Social workers should take reasonable steps to ensure that their employing organizations’ practices are consistent with the \textit{NASW Code of Ethics}.

(e) Social workers should act to prevent and eliminate discrimination in the employing organization’s work assignments and in its employment policies and practices.

(f) Social workers should accept employment or arrange student field placements only in organizations that exercise fair personnel practices.

(g) Social workers should be diligent stewards of the resources of their employing organizations, wisely conserving funds where appropriate and never misappropriating funds or using them for unintended purposes.

3.10 Labor-Management Disputes

(a) Social workers may engage in organized action, including the formation of and participation in labor unions, to improve services to clients and working conditions.

(b) The actions of social workers who are involved in labor-management disputes, job actions, or labor strikes should be guided by the profession’s values, ethical principles, and ethical standards. Reasonable differences of opinion exist among social workers concerning their primary obligation as professionals during an actual or threatened labor strike or job action. Social workers should carefully examine relevant issues and their possible impact on clients before deciding on a course of action.

4. SOCIAL WORKERS’ ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES AS PROFESSIONALS

4.01 Competence

(a) Social workers should accept responsibility or employment only on the basis of existing competence or the intention to acquire the necessary competence.

(b) Social workers should strive to become and remain proficient in professional practice and the performance of professional functions. Social workers should critically examine and keep current with emerging knowledge relevant to social work. Social workers should routinely review the professional literature and participate in continuing education relevant to social work practice and social work ethics.

(c) Social workers should base practice on recognized knowledge, including empirically based knowledge, relevant to social work and social work ethics.
4.02 Discrimination
Social workers should not practice, condone, facilitate, or collaborate with any form of discrimination on the basis of race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, or mental or physical disability.

4.03 Private Conduct
Social workers should not permit their private conduct to interfere with their ability to fulfill their professional responsibilities.

4.04 Dishonesty, Fraud, and Deception
Social workers should not participate in, condone, or be associated with dishonesty, fraud, or deception.

4.05 Impairment
(a) Social workers should not allow their own personal problems, psychosocial distress, legal problems, substance abuse, or mental health difficulties to interfere with their professional judgment and performance or to jeopardize the best interests of people for whom they have a professional responsibility.

(b) Social workers whose personal problems, psychosocial distress, legal problems, substance abuse, or mental health difficulties interfere with their professional judgment and performance should immediately seek consultation and take appropriate remedial action by seeking professional help, making adjustments in workload, terminating practice, or taking any other steps necessary to protect clients and others.

4.06 Misrepresentation
(a) Social workers should make clear distinctions between statements made and actions engaged in as a private individual and as a representative of the social work profession, a professional social work organization, or the social worker’s employing agency.

(b) Social workers who speak on behalf of professional social work organizations should accurately represent the official and authorized positions of the organizations.

(c) Social workers should ensure that their representations to clients, agencies, and the public of professional qualifications, credentials, education, competence, affiliations, services provided, or results to be achieved are accurate. Social workers should claim only those relevant professional credentials they actually possess and take steps to correct any inaccuracies or misrepresentations of their credentials by others.

4.07 Solicitations
(a) Social workers should not engage in uninvited solicitation of potential clients who, because of their circumstances, are vulnerable to undue influence, manipulation, or coercion.

(b) Social workers should not engage in solicitation of testimonial endorsements (including solicitation of consent to use a client’s prior statement as a testimonial endorsement) from current clients or from other people who, because of their particular circumstances, are vulnerable to undue influence.
4.08 Acknowledging Credit

(a) Social workers should take responsibility and credit, including authorship credit, only for work they have actually performed and to which they have contributed.

(b) Social workers should honestly acknowledge the work of and the contributions made by others.

5. SOCIAL WORKERS’ ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES TO THE SOCIAL WORK PROFESSION

5.01 Integrity of the Profession

(a) Social workers should work toward the maintenance and promotion of high standards of practice.

(b) Social workers should uphold and advance the values, ethics, knowledge, and mission of the profession. Social workers should protect, enhance, and improve the integrity of the profession through appropriate study and research, active discussion, and responsible criticism of the profession.

(c) Social workers should contribute time and professional expertise to activities that promote respect for the value, integrity, and competence of the social work profession. These activities may include teaching, research, consultation, service, legislative testimony, presentations in the community, and participation in their professional organizations.

(d) Social workers should contribute to the knowledge base of social work and share with colleagues their knowledge related to practice, research, and ethics. Social workers should seek to contribute to the profession’s literature and to share their knowledge at professional meetings and conferences.

(e) Social workers should act to prevent the unauthorized and unqualified practice of social work.

5.02 Evaluation and Research

(a) Social workers should monitor and evaluate policies, the implementation of programs, and practice interventions.

(b) Social workers should promote and facilitate evaluation and research to contribute to the development of knowledge.

(c) Social workers should critically examine and keep current with emerging knowledge relevant to social work and fully use evaluation and research evidence in their professional practice.

(d) Social workers engaged in evaluation or research should carefully consider possible consequences and should follow guidelines developed for the protection of evaluation and research participants. Appropriate institutional review boards should be consulted.

(e) Social workers engaged in evaluation or research should obtain voluntary and written informed consent from participants, when appropriate, without any implied or actual deprivation or penalty for refusal to participate; without undue inducement to participate; and with due regard for participants’ wellbeing, privacy, and dignity. Informed consent should include information about the nature, extent, and duration of the participation requested and disclosure of the risks and benefits of participation in the research.

(f) When evaluation or research participants are incapable of giving informed consent, social workers should provide an appropriate explanation to the participants, obtain the participants’ assent to the extent they are able, and obtain written consent from an appropriate proxy.
(g) Social workers should never design or conduct evaluation or research that does not use consent procedures, such as certain forms of naturalistic observation and archival research, unless rigorous and responsible review of the research has found it to be justified because of its prospective scientific, educational, or applied value and unless equally effective alternative procedures that do not involve waiver of consent are not feasible.

(h) Social workers should inform participants of their right to withdraw from evaluation and research at any time without penalty.

(i) Social workers should take appropriate steps to ensure that participants in evaluation and research have access to appropriate supportive services.

(j) Social workers engaged in evaluation or research should protect participants from unwarranted physical or mental distress, harm, danger, or deprivation.

(k) Social workers engaged in the evaluation of services should discuss collected information only for professional purposes and only with people professionally concerned with this information.

(l) Social workers engaged in evaluation or research should ensure the anonymity or confidentiality of participants and of the data obtained from them. Social workers should inform participants of any limits of confidentiality, the measures that will be taken to ensure confidentiality, and when any records containing research data will be destroyed.

(m) Social workers who report evaluation and research results should protect participants’ confidentiality by omitting identifying information unless proper consent has been obtained authorizing disclosure.

(n) Social workers should report evaluation and research findings accurately. They should not fabricate or falsify results and should take steps to correct any errors later found in published data using standard publication methods.

(o) Social workers engaged in evaluation or research should be alert to and avoid conflicts of interest and dual relationships with participants, should inform participants when a real or potential conflict of interest arises, and should take steps to resolve the issue in a manner that makes participants’ interests primary.

(p) Social workers should educate themselves, their students, and their colleagues about responsible research practices.

6. SOCIAL WORKERS’ ETHICAL RESPONSIBILITIES TO THE BROADER SOCIETY

6.01 Social Welfare

Social workers should promote the general welfare of society, from local to global levels, and the development of people, their communities, and their environments. Social workers should advocate for living conditions conducive to the fulfillment of basic human needs and should promote social, economic, political, and cultural values and institutions that are compatible with the realization of social justice.

6.02 Public Participation

Social workers should facilitate informed participation by the public in shaping social policies and institutions.

6.03 Public Emergencies

Social workers should provide appropriate professional services in public emergencies to the greatest extent possible.
6.04 Social and Political Action

(a) Social workers should engage in social and political action that seeks to ensure that all people have equal access to the resources, employment, services, and opportunities they require to meet their basic human needs and to develop fully. Social workers should be aware of the impact of the political arena on practice and should advocate for changes in policy and legislation to improve social conditions in order to meet basic human needs and promote social justice.

(b) Social workers should act to expand choice and opportunity for all people, with special regard for vulnerable, disadvantaged, oppressed, and exploited people and groups.

(c) Social workers should promote conditions that encourage respect for cultural and social diversity within the United States and globally. Social workers should promote policies and practices that demonstrate respect for difference, support the expansion of cultural knowledge and resources, advocate for programs and institutions that demonstrate cultural competence, and promote policies that safeguard the rights of and confirm equity and social justice for all people.

(d) Social workers should act to prevent and eliminate domination of, exploitation of, and discrimination against any person, group, or class on the basis of race, ethnicity, national origin, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, marital status, political belief, religion, immigration status, or mental or physical disability.
I, _________________________________ (PRINT NAME) have read the Student Handbook for the Social Work Program for 2014-2015 academic year and understand all of the information contained.

I am fully aware of the expectations of the Social Work Program (as expressed in the Mercy College Social Work Program Handbook for the academic year in which I matriculated) and the guidelines and policies that I am expected to follow as student in the program.
